THE BITTER BITTEN.

Once more the grasping avidity of the bears down in San Francisco has met with a Waterloo for their destructive policy of tearing down what legitimate miners are trying to build up. The lesson has been driven home so often that it is a matter of surprise that the traders on Bush street lost sight of all precaution and took chances with the lumps whom they proposed to fleece. Instead of having a luxurious diet of lamb roast for breakfast these smashers of prices found the day of reckoning came without ability to meet the reverse. The San Francisco shorts got their dose yesterday and today the air is filled with lamentations and weeping and wailing that they should have been so short-sighted as to venture in the dangerous shoals of knocking values about which they had a limited knowledge. For three weeks the San Francisco brokers have been circulating all sorts of damaging reports without any other foundation than their own desires. They said Tonopah Divide was overdrawn at the bank, that the Divide Ex had run out of ore, and that the Belcher Ex was a myth, so far as highgrade was concerned. These reports were industriously circulated but, not satisfied with that mendacity, they took advantage of their customers to force settlements on a market demoralized. Margin traders were sold out remorselessly and with a ruthlessness that was not justified by any business methods. The brokers build up a series of stories to warrant their action and then helped the general collapse by sacrificing their customers' interests through dumping their stocks on the already weakened market with the sole intention of buying in and making a grand clean-up with double profits on the buying and selling side of the game.

The Divide mines are in better shape than ever and when the annual reports of the leading companies, now in course of preparation are submitted, there will be one grand surprise for the wreckers who flourish on Bush street.

ANOTHER WILSON DEMOCRAT.

"Dear Friend Howe," as Emmy Goldman calls the Wilson appointee in charge of immigration affairs at Ellis Island, when asked by a congressional committee to state his politics averred that he was a democrat. He then proceeded to declare himself a single taxer, a Plumb plan exponent, a believer in government ownership, opposed to Mexican intervention and in favor of immediate peace with bolshevistic Russia. This was all corroborative of his statement that he was a democrat, not a Jefferson democrat. A Wilson democrat howls down individualism, nationalism and government by law and stands for class control, internationalism and government by men. That is why a Wilson democrat can depend upon such votes as Goldman's, Berkman's, Brisbane's and the like.

SMASHING THE BEEF TRUST.

The best news received for some years was the declaration yesterday that the big five packers of the west had seen the error of their ways and had been converted to the justice of severing all connections with the various side issues through which they managed successfully to bleed the American people, the beef grower and the farmer. Through the ownership of stockyards the trust imposed charges for caring for stock while awaiting sale in the leading markets and then, by a combination of buyers, establishing a fictitious low price for meats on the hoof. The affable manner in which the verdict was pronounced in by the packers recalls forcibly the methods of the Standard Oil company when forced to dissolve its allied corporations and ostensibly sever all connection with these branches of the parent industry. The first effect was seen in an advance in the price of the stock of these subsidiaries, all going to prove that the divorce was more a matter of bookkeeping than one where the ownership would change. Standard Oil subsidiaries sell higher today than at any time when they were openly recognized as auxiliaries of the mother company and it is now recognized that the disruption was more a matter of form than of fact. The packers may enter into some agreement by which they may evade prosecution, but there will be no change in the methods by which they have controlled and dominated the livestock markets of the world.

GETTING IT IN THE NECK.

Dr. Garfield's plan for settling the coal strike was based on a 14 per cent increase of wages to the miners to compensate them for the increase in the cost of living. The strike of the steel workers was for the purpose of compelling the United States Steel corporation to pay them a wage commensurate with the increased cost of living. The threatened tie-up of the railroads by the members of the four brotherhoods of railway employees was justified on the ground that their standard of living could not be maintained under existing prices unless their wages were correspondingly increased. Manufacturers, mine operators, wholesale and retail dealers, and everybody who has anything to sell, have increased their prices, not only to cover the higher cost of labor and materials they have to buy, but on a percentage basis so that they, too, will be compensated for the increased cost of living.

But where does the public come in? What of the millions of salaried men, of those who make up what is known as the "unorganized labor" and of the others who have no means at their command for raising their incomes, but who must depend upon the justice of their employers for any increase in compensation that may come to them. These people who form by far the greater portion of our citizenry, are completely at the mercy of the others who are so situated that they are able to wring from the public a sufficient increase in their incomes to offset any rise the price of living may take. Upon the public falls the entire burden of that increased cost. To remedy that condition of affairs and compel all classes to assume equally the burdens of national reconstruction will be one of the duties awaiting the republican party when it takes over control of the executive department of the government in March, 1921.

DEPORTATION FOR NEW YORK SCHOOLBOY

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Thomas Bukhanob, the 17-year-old self-confessed schoolboy anarchist now on Ellis Island awaiting deportation to Russia as a dangerous alien, who says he obtained his "education" in radicalism from books obtained at the New York public library, in an interview with a representative of the Associated Press, indicated that a real message to American institutions rests upon many a free bookshelf.

The youth who, shortly after graduating from a New York public school, became the secretary of the union of Russia Workers' local, an anarchist organization in Brooklyn with a membership of 150, discussed with perfect frankness the causes which had led him to his impending banishment from the United States. The first step, he said, had been socialism, a theory favored by some of the teachers in his school. It was not radical enough, he said, so he took up anarchism.

Bukhanob would prove a study for the psychologist. He is more than ordinary intelligent and quick-witted. A pair of light blue eyes peer from beneath a shock of very light brown hair and when he smiles he shows a fine set of wellkept teeth. Well dressed and supplied with an abundance of cigars he expressed contentment with his lot and hoped he would soon be sent to Kronstad or Nijni-Novgorod, in Russia, where, he said, there were anarchist communes. The necessity of leaving his mother and two sisters, one of whom is a student in a Brooklyn high school, and none of whom share his views, caused him few regrets, he said, because "one must be willing to sacrifice himself for a cause."

The prisoner came to the United States from Volhynia, in the Ukraine or "Little Russia" with his mother in 1912 when ten years old. His father, a Russian mujik, is dead. For five years he attended a New York public school, graduating in 1917. He had been taught the usual branches, including a knowledge of the United States constitution. He said he had no use for governments of any kind because they were all "dishonest." Upon leaving school Bukhanob obtained employment at what he said was fair wages. His home life, he declared, was happy.

"I was working in a machine shop for $21.60 a week and would have received a good raise," said Bukhanob laughingly as he discussed his plight. The boy's manner was earnest, almost eager, to answer questions. His parents, he said, had been members of the Greek Catholic church but he had never been very religious. He could not understand he said, if there was a God why there was so much evil in the world.

"I slept last night," he went on, "with a lot of murderers and robbers, but I am able to take care of myself." Here Bukhanob recounted

AMERICA HELPS SAVE POLAND

(Correspondence of Associated Press)

DANZIG, Dec. 1.—More than 350,000 tons of foodstuffs and raw cotton have been shipped to Poland via Danzig from the United States since last February. For a time these supplies were arriving at the rate of 5,000 tons daily. A shipment of 150 locomotives is expected soon.

The American relief administration for feeding European children directs its work in Poland from Danzig. John H. Lange of Seattle, Wash., and Captain C. A. Abele, naval attaché at Warsaw, are in charge. Mr. Lange told the Associated Press correspondent that in Poland alone the American relief administration was now feeding about 1,000,000 children.

"We expect," he said, "to do some relief work in Germany before long, especially here in Danzig. There is very little milk in this district for children, and meat, sugar and fats are also scarce."

"Danzig will soon be a free city and, as Poland's port, is more Polish than German. At the present time the German government bears the expense of importing most of the foreign foodstuffs and sells it at a price which the people can afford to pay. This arrangement will cease soon, and I think there will be urgent need then of our help."

With some evidence of pride an experience he had had when he was chief monitor in school. Five or six boys attacked him. "I knocked out two of them," he chuckled, "and the others beat it."

Bukhanob said few of the boys and girls in school entertained the views he did. Most of them preferred to spend their leisure time at the movies. He liked to read history, philosophy, sociology and economics.

Those who now are too watchful of their hours of work, are approaching the time when they won't have any hours and about the same amount to eat.
